MLA Parenthetical Reference

Example for your source
A parenthetical reference to this Anthology/Collection might look like this:

...the end of your sentence (Swearer [Page #]).

Customize the example:

* Note: If the database does not provide page numbers from the original print source, omit the page number(s) from your in-text reference.

Note: This is not the only way to write this parenthetical reference. For example, you might include the author or title of the work in your sentence already (see Rule 2). Please read the additional rules below to be sure you are writing your reference correctly.

What is a parenthetical reference?
A parenthetical reference is a reference within the body of your paper to one of the sources listed in your Works Cited list. It indicates to your reader exactly what you derived from the source, and specifically where it can be found. You need to write a parenthetical, or "in-text" reference, whether you quote the material directly from the source, paraphrase it in your own words, or refer to an idea derived from the material.
Examine the source citation at the end of the article to determine the proper citation type.
