ANTHOLOGY (REPRINTED ARTICLES) CITING TUTORIAL
An anthology is a collection of short works usually by different contributors.

Some anthologies are collections of reprinted magazine, journal, or newspaper articles, as well as sections from books or other sources.

Look for the original source citation information at the bottom of the first page of the reprinted article.

You must give credit to the original source and the anthology.
When citing a reprinted article from an anthology look for citation information on the:

- Front Cover
- Title Page
- Verso (Back of Title Page)
- Bottom of page where selected essay begins

Homelessness Is a Problem Created by Deregulation and Cutbacks

David Hulchanski

In the following viewpoint David Hulchanski argues that homelessness is a relatively recent social problem in the developed world, caused by cutbacks in social housing programs and an increased reliance on the market to cure social ills. Hulchanski claims that, historically, society has not tolerated the existence of homeless persons and that the abandonment of a social philosophy that views shelter as a basic need is to blame. Hulchanski is the Dr. Chow Yu Ching Chair in Housing in the Faculty of Social Work at the University of Toronto in Canada.
